Jehn Rourke.

The funeral of John Rourke, who was found dead beneath a tree near his home in Chaplin Tuesday morning, was held Thursday morning from Killourey Bros.' undertaking rooms with requiem mass following at St. Joseph's Aureh at 9 o'clock. Rev. T. H. Sullivan was the celebrant of the mass.

The bearers were John and James German of Scuth Manchester, Charles Brookman of Bornside and Thomas Carroll of Chaplin, Burial was in St. Joseph's cemtery.

Hunters Swap Yarns.

The 2 o'clock club at police head yored with some rare stories of the hunt and chase. The leaders in the arguments were Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton and ex-Judge of Probate Mer-ritt Welch of Chaplin. After relating some tales of big bags, etc., the sub-ject drifted to rabbit hunting. Town Clerk Fenton discredited a statement the ex-judge made relative to being in a party that secured about a dozen rabbits one night. He maintained a rabbits was a fine hunt and that after quite a long trudge. Mr. Welch was willing to waser he could get rabbits at the rate of six an hour, and that he could take the genial town clerk to a favorite place in Chaplin any time and secure at least twenty-five rabbits during a night's hunt with ease, and luring a night's hunt with case, and during a night's hunt with ease, and without dogs, either, just as soon as a good snowfall came.

Town Clerk Fenton, although a pretty good hunter, said the feat was impossible. Mr. Welch said it was no such thing and tried to arrange a hunting bee on the spot. Judge James A. Shea was willing to be one of the party but Town Clerk Fenton balked and went up to his office in deep digust. He usually gets away with most of his arguments, but he was checkmated in fine shape at the I o'clock club's Thursday session. Mr. Welch said that never within als mannory were rabbits as thick as at the and other seasonable merbirches they had to browse on, as ev-

Will Have to Be Made by Registrars

Registrars of Voters John C. Barstow and P. D. Donahne are at work on the four ward voting lists preparing them for printing. The principal work is that of changing voters from one ward to another because of removals. About fifty have personally notified the registrars of such change of residence. The registrars are going over the lists carefully and putting them in as good shape as possible, comparing the addresses of the electors with those given in the last city directory. This is to insure the voting of an elector in the ward in which he resides. It is thought that before the several lists reach the printers at least 1,000 changes will have been made, and then there will be some whose change of residence is not noted, as they do not appear in the some whose change of residence is not noted, as they do not appear in the city directory. If all electors who have changed their residence since the last city election would notify the registrars personally there would be no difficulty in perfecting an almost perfect list and thus facilitate matters considerably and save inconvenience at election time and preclude the nossibility of their not being allowed possibility of their not being allowed Lights Turned On.

At the People's Light and Power company plant, repairs were made to the demayed engine in time to get the electric power on again during the morning hours of Thursday. Just how indispensable electricity has come to be could not have been better demonstrated than by such a night of darkness as Penielson experienced on Wednesday. "How did we ever get along without it?" was heard a score of times Thursday.

William J. Brady, whose home is dethis city, is to appear here in a play that has been hooked for an early date and which here had a big New York success. Mr. Brady has been in legitimate drama for soveral years, and is rapidly working his way to a place of consequence in his profession. It was remarked Thursday that the democratic party in Putnam has been twice unfortunate in their nominations twice unfortunate in their nominations for mayor through unexpected developments. Four years ago C. W. Bradway was elected by the party and declined to serve, and never took office as mayor: this year Alderman LaRue received the nomination and would not run. In both instances the state of health of the candidates was a consideration in declining honors.
